IDAHO CITY/BOGUS BASIN

A good friend of mine lives in Boise and this year when setting up the season we were discussing some of the great ski trips he had been on in southern Idaho. This gave me the idea to set up a quick tour of the better destinations of the region. So often when talking about skiing in Idaho Sun Valley is the topic of discussion, but once locals get into the conversation all sorts of other great trips come up. This is a three day trip, Wednesday to Saturday, so we have Sunday to unpack and clean up before work. The first part of the trip will be based out of Idaho City and we will be skiing between here and Lowman at some great little ski areas with some really dumb names like "Woop-Um-Up" East and West "Gold Fork", and Banner Ridge Park N' Ski. The must do trip here according to Bob is Pilot Peak or Sunset Mountain with beautiful ridge roads and wonderful vistas in all directions. The last day of the trip we will ski the trail system they have built at Bogus Basin. This nordic center is remarkably nice with a beautiful new lodge just for the skinny skiers (no fat boards allowed), and 37 km of very nicely groomed trails. Provided: airfare, rental cars, lodging. Dates 2/24-27 Cost $493
