QUINAULT LAKE LODGE

"Retreat to the Historic Lake Quinault Lodge and let the beauty and tranquility of the Quinault Rainforest envelope you; with gorgeous views of the Olympics and stunning Lake Quinault, this is a perfect getaway to relax, read a book or play a game of chess in front of the grand fireplace and enjoy the peace and quiet". - Lake Quinault Lodge brochure. in the spirit of classic lodges from another era, such as Timberline and Paradise the Lake Quinault Lodge is both grand and remote! They were constructed in spectacular, and what seemed to be almost unreachable settings. It was in fact back in 1937 in this lodge where President Roosevelt got the inspiration to make the Olympic Peninsula into a National Park. The interior is all timber and hardwood with "glass light" style grand windows fronting on the best views. The restaurant has a great reputation for seafood including both halibut and traditional Northwest Coast Indian cedar plank salmon. Although There isn't any great skiing or snowshoeing to speak of around the area the grand old lodge is uncrowded and welcoming. The nearby rainforest hiking and beach walks are also well worth the drive, but don't forget your rain gear! Provided: transit, lodging. Dates 1/26-27 Cost $155
