TELEMARK SKI DAY

Bring your ski skins and metal edged skis, and join us as we will ski the ridges and bowls of Kachess Ridge or Mt. Amabalis. The terrain here is readily accessible and well suited for all levels of telemarking. The upper bowls are open and south facing, frequently providing some wonderful corn snow skiing conditions in the spring. There are slopes for all levels of telemark skier here. If time and weather permits we will also ski the back bowls of the ridge. These back bowls are characterized by quintessential subalpine scattered tree clusters amidst vast open snow slopes. This is a one day trip so it requires that we carry no more than day gear with us. Often our packs can be dropped for a while once at a good ski slope, allowing us to ski without the encumbrance. The trip is scheduled near the winter equinox so the days will be longer and the snow pack will have filled in and smoothed over many of the early season inconsistencies in the slope. Provided: transit, maps. Date Tuesday 3/10
