WATERFALL HIKE

There are three spectacular clusters of waterfalls which we may visit based on water flow and weather. Our waterfall itinerary includes Keekwulee Falls, a 70 foot multi tiered falls. Keekwulee is a 4 mile hike up Denny Creek, which is a tributary of the South Fork Snoqualmie River. Franklin Falls is a vertical plunge falls adjoining the historic Snoqualmie Pass wagon road. There is a beautiful mist bathed one mile trail that follows the continual cascade of the South Fork Snoqualmie all the way to Denny Cr. camp. All along the trail are glimpses into the 20 foot deep granite gorge carved by the turbulent river here. About 10 miles further down stream is 168' Twin Falls, a two mile hike provides spectacular views of two classic falls. Finally there is Snoqualmie Falls. Some of the falls up north include: Bridal Veil Falls, on the south side of the highway draining Lake Serene; Sunset Falls with its power and plumes of white froth shooting into the air; Eagle Falls churns its way through a beautiful rock chasm into a clear green pool below. A fourth waterfall, Wallace Falls, is a hike of about six miles round trip and 800' elevation gain, on a good trail. This is a classic double plunge falls. If the weather is poor we will head East to visit such falls as Triple Falls, a dramatic triple cascade (believe it or not sometimes run by kayakers), China Falls, a high volume river wide plunge falls, an intricate waterfall called the Wall of Voodoo, and an unusual ramp falls in a narrow canyon.
